Dear iExpress,

its been some time since I wrote so here is more dribble to get off my chest and add to my collection.

Justice!?! : :

What does it mean if those who are assigned to enforce it, use it to break the law? I commit a crime and I'm placed in jail to prevent me doing it again, the Government commits a crime and what?

!NOTHING!

Those who enforce the law must obey the law.

Berrimah Prison is supposed to have moved to the new site at Howard Springs but those that are in charge have no idea what's happening next, so here we sit locked down in the sweltering heat. Good job N.T Government, they sure know how to mess things up big time. We have a Minister in charge of courts, policing and (poorly named) Corrections who has a major vendetta against crime because of his past - what a blatant conflict of interest - hence all this mandatory sentencing. How far will this Big Brother style of living go on? Do we want machines to take over? we've all seen Terminator and the Matrix and the impression they give of the future, I'm glad I'll be dead when humans forget who and what they are/once were. I know these are just ramblings of a bored criminal but what happens to me now reflects my attitude when I get parole in 18 years, do you want me insane or someone able to get on with life?

Thankyou For giving a damn!
